

S.J. PHILLIPS

Pair of 19th century 18ct gold, diamond and ruby pendant earrings, c.1860, of anglo-indian style with openwork pear shaped cluster drops, set to the central swing section with a line of cushion cut rubies terminating in a cushion cut diamonds, bordered by wirework scroll trim set around with rose cut diamonds, similar to the outer frames edging a double scroll line of old single cut diamonds, ruby accents, from three stone gold stipple ground tops, these detachable for wear alone

Length 5.2cm / 2"

Weight: 9g