

S.J. PHILLIPS

19th century ruby, diamond and enamel heart pendant, c.1850, of bombe form, the front with target cluster, of central pear faceted ruby to a three row border of cushion cut diamonds and rubies, the back guilloche enamelled in a rich dark blue and centred by a rose cut diamond to cut star motif, mounted in gold, hinged to one side and opening to reveal a glazed locket compartment, hung upon a three stone cushion cut diamond suspension loop of ogee shape, total diamond weight approximately 2.00cts, total ruby weight approximately 1.25cts

Length including hoop 3.6cm / 1 7/16"

Width 2cm / 3/4"

Weight: 8g