

S.J. PHILLIPS

19th century sapphire, pearl and diamond target cluster pendant brooch, English c.1860, probably by Hunt & Roskell of London (Late Storr & Mortimer), for wear as either a pendant or a brooch, the central larger cushion cut sapphire bordered small cushion cut diamonds, a row of pearls and outer border of cushion cut sapphires with diamond accents spaced around the rim, rose cut diamond highlights within, from a three stone cushion sapphire foliate cluster surmount, all collet set and mounted in 18ct yellow gold, the brooch pin detachable, stamped '18' for the gold standard, together with a fitted case by Hunt & Roskell.

The sapphires estimated to weigh 2.70cts, the diamonds estimated to weigh 1ct, the split pearls estimated to weigh 5cts
Length 5cm / 2"
Weight: 20.5g