

S.J. PHILLIPS

Early 20th century diamond and sapphire pendant, French c.1910, formerly belonging to Cornelia, Countess of Craven,

the pear shaped panel below an oblique cushion panel, each pave set with circular cut diamonds with principal stone to centre and bordered by a line of calibre cut sapphires, the pear panel with a diamond scroll surmount, all hung from a diamond bar suspension loop with sapphire lines supporting a later added tracelink chain, millegrain and collet set in platinum.

Provenance:

Sold by order of the Executors of the Estate of Cornelia, Countess of Craven; ex lot 51, 30th November 1961, Sotheby's London.

The photograph in the catalogue shows the pendant formerly upon a sapphire line necklace, the terminals of which remain.

Length to top of diamond suspension loop 7.5cm / 3"

Length of necklace 44.3cm / 17"

Weight: 15g