S.J. PHILLIPS

Late 18th / early 19th century ruby and diamond floral tremblant spray and crescent brooch, c.1800, designed as two floral and foliate sinuous stems with tulip shaped flowers, the flowerheads set with cushion and pear-like oblong shaped rubies, smaller ones with diamonds, curving leaves and petals with with smaller cushion cut diamonds, a large crescent of graduated cushion cut diamonds to one side framing the sprays, each element with tremblant action, partially open and cut down collet set in silver and gold Length 9cm / 3"

Width 6.5cm / 2 5/8"
Weight: 34.5g