

S.J. PHILLIPS

Late 20th century platinum, aquamarine and diamond 'tubogas' collar necklace and pair of earrings en suite by Pauly, the tapering platinum necklace of accordion style links in flattened tubular form, also known as 'gaspipe' design, centred by a principal aquamarine of canted step cut and bordered by a channel set line of end-to-end baguette and trapezium cut diamonds, two-stone baguette diamond push to the clasp, the earrings each formed of similar aquamarine in diamond line border, collet set landscape upon a line-pierced scroll-under panel extending to the clip fitting behind, all stamped 'Pt', '950' and with maker's mark 'Pauly' within a stamp outline of modern brilliant profile.

Approximate stone weights:

Necklace: aquamarine 20.35ct, diamonds 2.85cts

Earrings: aquamarines 4.80ct & 4.55ct, diamonds 3.35cts

Necklace length 46cm / 18"

Width at centre 2cm / 3/4"

Aquamarine to necklace approximately 19.1 x 14.3 x 9.7mm

Earrings length 1.9cm / 3/4"

Width 1.7cm / 5/8"

Aquamarines to earrings approximately 11.4 x 9.3 x 6.0mm & 11.5 x 9.1 x 5.7mm

Weight: 212.5g gross