S.J. PHILLIPS

Art Deco platinum and diamond charm bracelet hung with various bell charms, American, including the Liberty bell, the bracelet chain formed of fancy oblong links spaced by oblique box collets rach set with a round brilliant cut diamond, suspending eight different bells of spherical, campana and tapered form, pave set with single cut diamonds, three embellished with calibre cut gems comprising from the bolt ring clasp:

a round bell, the spherical form with diamond body and channel line of calibre buff top emeralds, sapphires and rubies, multi pierced lines to the lower half; a hand bell with diamonds to handle and body; the Liberty bell, bearing its distinctive crack and sign 'LIBERTY', symbol of American Independence; twin wedding bells in diamond with ruby ribbon bow surmount and bufftop ruby heart clappers; a church bell with wheel and rope; a sleigh bell, also known as a crotal or rumbler bell; a cow bell of tapered oblong form and a conical bell with rose cut diamonds and cabochon onyx dots, trace of possible serial number to tthe ring of this last bell, the bolt ring marked 'IRID PLAT'
Length 17.7cm / 7"

Drop 1.7cm / 5/8"
Weight: 26g