S.J. PHILLIPS

19th century emerald and diamond flowerhead brooch, c.1890, designed as a Tudor rose, the two-rows of five petals set throughout with diamonds of old brilliant, cushion, double eight and single cuts, around a circular facetted emerald dotted around by five rose cut diamond collet accents, open set in silver and gold, Austrian 'A' control marks, approximately 4.75cts of diamonds in all Width 2.9cm / 1 1/8"

Emerald approximately 6.1mm x 6.1mm
Weight: 12g