S.J. PHILLIPS

17th century three stone rose cut diamond, gold and enamel ring, c.1670, the graduated diamonds with four smaller rose cut diamonds in between, the larger central diamond of shaped hexagonal outline, the side diamonds of similar and ovalish-pear outline, accent diamonds of triangular outline, close collet bezel set with dentil border in relief, the underside with bevelled border featuring fluted grooves enamelled in black and with white dot accent, the shank slightly tapering, engraved to half hoop with foliate scroll decoration, previously with black enamelling of which a trace remains

Head 19.8 x 10.1mm

Central rose cut from where visible measures approximately 8.0 x 6.0 x 3.8mm high

Weight: 4.5g