

S.J. PHILLIPS

Pair of 19th century gold, ruby and diamond oval panel pendant earrings, c.1870, applied with a ruby and diamond cross to the front, upon the low domed gold oval panel, the stones of cushion cut alternating rubies and diamonds with a ruby forming the arms either side, the panel with ropetwist frame, suspending a gold inverted droplet, from shepherd's crook fittings with little serpent heads suspending the panel pendants from their mouths, approximately 1.60cts of rubies and 0.60cts of diamonds, the gold testing as 18ct with 22ct gilding

Length including fittings 4.3cm / 1 7/16"

Width 1.5cm / 9/16"

Weight: 8.5g